Kevin Teague Custom Homes

The main level living area has an open floor plan design. The kitchen, living room and dining room all share a huge open space with vaulted ceilings and an enormous wall of windows from floor to ceiling. That provides expansive long range mountain views and an eagles-eye view of Lake Blue Ridge. The large custom kitchen is set off with reclaimed metal inserts on cabinet doors and a brick backsplash. Reclaimed barn wood and metal accents surround the walls and ceilings. On the main level there is another master suite with a king bed and large walk in shower with double bowl vanity with rustic touches. The terrace level is certainly the fun zone of the home. The rough sawn shiplap and rough sawn flooring set off this area with a pool table and foosball table to keep the kids entertained. All 3 levels of this home boast large decks that allow you to really take in the long range lake and mountain views.

Description

This home became a work of art with the builder's and client's ideas combined together. We like to call this amazing home "The Feinburg". It's unbelievable complexity and extreme finishes make them truly proud to show their home. This 3,500 sq ft weekend getaway is certainly magazine worthy. This house is located in the desirable Necowa Cove subdivision, in the heart of the popular Aska Adventure Area. The en-suite master is located upstairs, boasting high vaulted ceilings dressed with rusted, reclaimed barn metal. The master bath is grand with double sliding barn doors at the entry way, leading to a large, double slipper soaking tub with his/her custom vanities on each side. An extra large brick shower with sitting bench provides all the finishing touches. The stair railings are another work of art, constructed of reclaimed barn timbers that are over 100 years old.
